ABSTRACT

This directory, the first of four volumes devoted to the tabulation and description of ethnic studies programs offered within the United States, lists the multicultural programs by ethnic group and by state within the ethnic group listing. The information is based on a survey of 3,038 postsecondary institutions in the U.S. and outlying areas. Conducted during the 1977-78 school year, the larger intent of this compilation is to aid in the establishment of a network of educators involved in program design, teaching, and research in the field of ethnic studies. Volume One tallies the schools in Alabama through part of California which provide courses of study leading to: a concentration; an undergraduate major or minor; an associate's, master's, or doctor's degree and/or a certificate. Page number references for more detailed information contained in the final chapter of the volume, such as faculty members and student participation figures, are also provided throughout the directory. ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The development of this directory has been supported by a grant from the Ethnic Heritage Studies Branch of the United States Office of Education. Dr. Carl P. Epstein, Acting Chief of the Ethnic Heritage Studies Branch deserves particular thanks for his support and encouragement throughout the project. Invaluable service has been rendered to the study by my research assistant, Mary Alice Minderhout, whose dedication and talents have been very much appreciated. Student secretaries, Gina Spotts and Lisa Neyhard, who typed the manuscript and performed myriad other tasks have earned my gratitude. Thanks are also due to Bloomsburg State College students Lee Ann Stem, Bernadette Uritis, and Lynne Algayer who have helped with various aspects of the project. Dr. J. Edward Kerlin, with the assistance of Thomas C. Dougherty, has given yeoman service in the design of computer programs and systems development for the analysis of the data generated by our survey. The advisory committee to this project have served well: Alfred C. Aarons, Dr. H. Prentice Baptiste, Jr., Dr. Samuel P. Hays, Mary Alice Minderhout, J. J. Sustar, Dr. Alex Washco, and Dr. Herbert B. Wilson. A very special thanks must go to all those who responded to our queries and questionnaires. The professional commitment evidenced by their participation in this project has been very much appreciated.

INTRODUCTION

This directory is the result of a survey of the 3,038 postsecondary institutions in the United States and outlying areas. It was conducted during the 1977-1978 academic year. The purpose of this study was to produce the first comprehensive directory of programs and personnel in the areas of ethnic studies, multicultural teacher education, and bilingual/bicultural education.

Although recognition of the culturally pluralistic nature of the United States as expressed in higher education curricula is an emergent, and still not modal, phenomenon, program growth has been rapid over the last few years. The median age of ethnic studies programs is slightly over six years. For bilingual/bicultural programs the figure is four years, whereas multicultural teacher education programs show a median of three and a half years duration.

With this recent growth comes a clear need to establish a network of communication among those involved or interested in program development, teaching, research, and study in these areas. Ethnic Studies, Bilingual/Bicultural Education and Multicultural Teacher Education in the United States: A Directory of Higher Education Programs and Personnel provides comprehensive information for the origination of such a network. Herein contained is an inclusive description of the present status of ethnic studies, bilingual/bicultural education and multicultural teacher education in the postsecondary institutions of the United States and outlying areas including information about which schools have programs; which ethnic groups are studied; which languages are taught; the number and nature of the courses offered (e.g. general or theoretical courses which provide conceptual orientations to ethnicity, multicultural education, or bilingual/bicultural education; courses which deal with methods and/or materials for teaching and/or working in settings which provide for cross cultural contact; student teaching, practica or internships which offer actual cross cultural contact; and courses which focus on the United States' experiences of specific ethnic groups); whether majors, minors, concentrations, degrees, and/or certificates are offered; how long the programs have been in operation; how many students participate in the programs; which academic disciplines are represented; the nature and extent of community involvement in the programs; the locally produced materials developed for the programs which are available; the name and address of the program director or contact person; and a listing of the personnel involved in the programs including their degrees and areas of specialization.

It is hoped that this directory will be utilized by all those interested in the study of these areas, those wishing to communicate with people involved in programs, those who are developing programs or looking for program models, those interested in contacting consultants or acquiring materials, those wishing to study or pursue degrees in these areas, and all those who want to become familiar with the present status of higher education curricula dealing with ethnic studies, bilingual/bicultural, and multicultural teacher education.

Initially a query letter was sent to the person in charge of the academic program (e.g. Academic Vice President or Dean of Academic Affairs) at each of the postsecondary institutions in the United States and outlying areas. This query letter defined what was meant by ethnic studies, bilingual/bicultural education, and multicultural teacher education programs.

For purposes of our survey a program referred to a major, minor, or concentration in an area. The administrator was asked to check boxes on the reverse side of the letter indicating whether his/her school offered such programs. If the answer was yes,spaces were provided for names and addresses of program directors or contact persons for each program offered by the school. This initial query was to be returned in a postage paid envelope included with the letter. An initial and up to five follow-up mailings of this query were sent to administrators who did not respond. Of the 3,038 schools queried 2,536 responses were received, 6 schools were reported to have closed, and 496 did not reply. The rate of response from the 3,038 schools, less the 6 no longer operating, was 84%. The respondents indentified 526 ethnic studies programs, 241 bilingual/bicultural programs, and 135 multicultural teacher education programs.

An initial and up to five follow-up questionnaires were sent to the program director or contact person for each of the programs identified. Those who had not responded to our questionnaires were contacted by phone and one additional questionnaire was sent if they agreed to complete and return it. Responses were received for 439 ethnic studies programs (84%), 226 bilingual/bicultural programs (94%), and 120 multicultural teacher education programs (84%).

Chapter One lists the ethnic studies programs by ethnic group. Within ethnic group categories, the schools offering programs are listed by state. Also included are indications as to whether the schools have a concentration, undergraduate major, undergraduate minor, graduate major, graduate minor, associate's degree, master's degree, doctor's degree, and/or certificate for each program. Further, the page number where a detailed description of the program (in Chapter Four) may be found is listed.

Chapter Two contains listings of the bilingual/bicultural programs in the United States and outlying areas, first by state and then by language. The same information listed in Chapter One for ethnic studies is included for the bilingual/bicultural programs.

Chapter Three offers a compilation of multicultural teacher education programs in the same manner as ethnic studies is done in the first chapter.

Chapter Four lists, by state, detailed descriptions of the programs offered by schools in the areas of ethnic studies, bilingual/bicultural, and multicultural teacher education. The information listed includes:

1. Name of School
2. Address
3. Types of programs ; degrees ; certificates ; and , for bilingual/ bicultural programs the language taught
4. Contact person and address
5. The number of general/theoretical courses
6. The number of methods/materials courses
7. Courses (student teaching, practica, internships) providing cross cultural contact
8. The number of courses focusing on the United States' experience of specific ethnic groups (listed by ethnic group)
9. Undergraduate majors by ethnic group
10. Undergraduate minors by ethnic group
11. Graduate majors by ethnic group
12. Graduate minors by ethnic group
13. Associate's degrees by ethnic group
14. Bachelor's degrees by ethnic group
15. Master's degrees by ethnic group

16. Doctor's degrees by ethnic group
17. Certificates by ethnic group
18. Length of operation of the program
19. Number of students participating in the program
20. Academic disciplines participating in the program
21. Types of community involvement in the program
22. Personnel involved in the program, their degrees, and areas of specialization
23. Locally produced materials available
24. Comments about additional features of the program
